SPLENDID PROGRAM GIVEN BY ARTISTS

Seldom Has South Bend Had Opportunity to Enjoy So Diversified a Recital.

Seldom has South Bend had the privilege of hearing such an interesting program of songs as that presented last night by Grace Holverscheid, soprano, and Helen Wing, composer-accompanist, in the Rotary room of the Oliver hotel, under the auspices of the musical club. At all times, whether rendering difficult numbers, or light, frivolous pieces, these musicians showed themselves to be artists of merit.

The three Russian songs by Gratchanoff were the most interesting on the program and Mrs. Holverscheid read them with true meaning. Of these songs, "My Native Land," and "The Snow Drop," were well received. Mrs. Holverscheid's few words of explanation before singing the Russian numbers greatly added interest in them. Two folk songs of little Russia revealed an interesting theme along with a most interesting piano accompaniment capably handled by Mrs. Wing.

Three songs by Brahms, "Love Song," "In Lonely Wood," and "Serenade," proved popular with the audience. The first and third of this series were particularly interesting and the perfect phrasing and modulation of Mrs. Holverscheid made them more appealing. Few artists sing with more feeling and understanding than Mrs. Holverscheid.

Nothing on the program was more beautiful than Mrs. Holverscheid's rendition of "The Song of the Lark." The singing of it showed careful study on the part of Mrs. Holverscheid and every tone was full of beauty and meaning. "Tally Ho," by Spross, was full of gaiety and description, with a touch of sadness in the last few lines.

Mrs. Holverscheid was more than generous with her encores and her selections of popular ballads were favorites with the audience. She and Mrs. Wing harmonized on two of them with perfect blending of voices. "Like Time," "Love Comes Like a Melody," and "Smiles" were the best received of the ballad numbers.

Helen Wing's "Original Piano-logic" was the most pleasing surprise of the evening. Though of a light and frivolous variety, Miss Wing made them things of beauty and artistic value. The first two, "The Old Woman in the Shoe" and "Gingerbread Man" are parodies on Mother Goose rhymes and are taken from Mrs. Wing's recently published "Nursery Nonsense."

Her "Little Eskimo" was a gem and though it bordered on the popular type, it had all the subtle charm of a classic. Mrs. Holverscheid was fortunate in having the services of such an artist as Mrs. Wing as not many accompanists show themselves to be such genuinely capable artists. Mrs. Wing's reading of the themes showed a complete understanding. The large audience was receptive and appreciative at all times and the artists had a hard time satisfying their generous applause. The proceeds from the concert were given to the Permanent Home Fund.

that he had faithfully told the committee all the information it was seeking.

Mr. Pou asserted it was the first time in his 21 years of service that the department of justice had sent representatives to "listen-in" on the rules committee.

In rounding up what he termed the good points of the organization, Mr. Simmons said that the "military branch," not yet formed, was not to be more militaristic than the patrol of the mystic shrine; that members joining were required to help enforce the nation's laws only as citizens and that when black sheep crept in they were kicked out, if found.

No Information. He had no personal information as to what the chief of police of Norfolk, Va., was a member, he said, adding that while there was no printed roster of members on file at Atlanta headquarters, each Klan or lodge kept a list of its own. There was no rule, he said, prohibiting publication of membership lists.

Getting down to the personal side, Mr. Pou asked the wizard point blank how much he was worth, and the wizard replied that all of his savings had been spent in the early fight to put the Klan on its feet.

"I have had no financial standing," he said. "I have had two pockets full of my own these past six years, and God being my witness, I have tried to steer this organization clear away from commercialism."

Simmons, answering Chairman Campbell, stated he had claimed a membership of hundreds of thousands, and who would go after congress, hitting it hip and thigh, if it attempted to crush the Klan. He asked congress to go ahead and investigate.

SECRECY IS PERIL TO ARMS MEETING, SAYS PROF. EGAN

Noted Diplomat, Former Notre Dame Professor, Will Lecture Here.

The chief danger to the success of the limitation of armament conference which meets upon Armistice day is secrecy. Such is the opinion of Dr. Maurice Francis Egan, former minister to Denmark and honored as one of our great diplomats.

Dr. Egan returned to South Bend today to renew the friendships and acquaintances made when he served as a professor at Notre Dame university, bringing with him his memories of his service here which not all the experiences in the great European capitals nor his own distinguished service to the country have dimmed.

He will lecture this evening at the Knickerbocker club and is spending the rest of the week in the pleasant occupation of mingling with those whom he delights to know as friends.

During his stay he is a guest at the home of W. D. O'Brien. On Sunday evening Dr. Egan will talk to the St. Mary's student body. On Nov. 1 he will return to this city, when he will appear before the Women's Dining club.

Dr. Egan distinguished himself as American minister to Denmark from 1907 to 1918. As professor of English literature at Notre Dame university from 1888 to 1895, his reputation as a scholar and instructor was unbounded. He is also a well known writer.

In 1917 he received the degree of master of arts at Notre Dame. His last visit to the city was about a year ago.

In his talk on world conditions Dr. Egan said: "There is some evidence of criticism of the president's announcement that too much is not to be expected from the approaching disarmament conference. From my experience in diplomatic affairs and speaking with a certain knowledge of the psychology of Europe."

"The result of the Versailles conference gave both Europe and our country a tremendous shock, because expectations were so unreasonable high. The president, then, is wise, in preparing us for certain facts which our people, who take very little trouble to be informed as to the genesis of foreign affairs, might easily misinterpret."

"There is no question that the coming conference will mark one of the greatest epochs in the history of the world; but it does not follow that any great conclusion, or any great action in the nature of a general disarmament will come from it. It is plainly impossible that European countries as a rule can disarm entirely at the present moment; and equally impossible that we can disarm; but the conference, called by the unanimous voice of the American people, and not at the initiative of any statesman, may clear the way to an intelligent appreciation of what can be done in the future."

"The chief danger for the conference is that, if there should be any attempt at that undefined secrecy which helped to ruin the prestige of the Versailles conference in the eyes of the common people of the world, if France feels that she cannot disarm for fear of Germany, if Japan is determined to keep a certain number of war vessels in commission to assist in, what after all is nothing more than a reasonable desire for expansion—for she must expand to feed her people voracious and become belligerents, if England feels that she cannot exist as an island empire without her fleet, we want to know exactly the reason for all this."

"We are determined if possible, to reduce our taxes by reducing our constantly increasing demands for apparatus of war but our position is entirely different from that of either the nations of Europe or the two most important nations of Asia."

Special to The News-Times: WARSAW, Oct. 17.—The trial of the divorce case of Edna Payne against DeWitt C. The hearing is before Judge William D. Frazer.

Much of the time of the hearing before Special Judge William D.
